

The Tullibardine 225 Cask Sauternes Finish

Country:	Scotland
Region:	Highlands - Blackford - Perthshire
Producer:	The Tullibardine Distilling Company
Range:	The Cask Finish Range
Bottling:	Distillery Bottling
Style:	Single Malt Whisky
Water Source	The Danny Burn
Owner	Picard Vins & Spiritueux S.A.
Status	Operational
Age:	No age statement
Cask Type:	American White Oak First Fill ex Bourbon Casks and 225 litres Barriques from Chateau Suduiraut, a Premier Cru Classe.
Colour:	Golden
Flavour Profile:	Floral
Allergens:	Not known
Bottle size:	70cl - abv: 43%

This golden Tullibardine has hints of citrusy lime on the nose and hints of vanilla and oatmeal. On the palate, there is a touch of tropical pineapple and zingy orange zest. The 225 finishes with a creamy edge.

The Story of Tullibardine

The history of Tullibardine as a location for brewing and distilling is one of the oldest in Scotland, dating back to the 15th Century. The story begins in 1488, when a young King James, IV of Scotland, stopped by before his coronation to purchase beer from the local brewery. This brewery was known for producing fine beer as a result of the local water source. By 1503, the King had granted them a Royal Charter

It was in 1947 that William Delmé-Evans began converting this original brewery into the Tullibardine Distillery. Upon testing the water from the nearby springs, Delmé-Evans knew he had found the perfect location for distilling whisky.

Once the whisky has been distilled, maturation takes place in first fill ex bourbon casks to create Tullibardine Sovereign.

With the addition of a bottling plant, Tullibardine is now one of the few distilleries in Scotland to distill, mature and bottle all on site, giving complete control over the process. Only first fill casks to impart maximum flavour and colour.

First fill 225 litre Chateau Suduiraut Sauternes Casks are re-casked with Tullibardine Sovereign for further maturation. This is important as during the whisky making process, up to 70% of the flavour and colour will come from the wood.

Taste with Water

NOSE: Citrus peel and allspice. Creamy vanilla golden syrup, cocoa butter and black peppercorns

PALLETTE; Notes of spiced candied orange and Seville marmalade. Dried pineapple and white chocolate.

BODY: Medium

FINISH: Medium finish with lingering sweet spices

STYLE: A fruity whisky with an influence from a desert wine cask

